HANNA BUYS A SENATORSHIP.

Marcus A. Hanna has at last succeeded in purchasing enough votes to secure him a seat in the United States Senate. One member of the Legislature was offered $10,000, which was probably about the top price paid for votes.

The Republican members of the Ohio Legislature, who refused to vote for Hanna, openly charged on the floor of the House that bribery had been resorted to to get votes for the great boodler. They earnestly requested that before proceeding further with the election of United States Senator, a joint committee of the two Houses be appointed and authorized to send for persons and papers to thoroughly investigate the charges. Having full faith in the truth of the charges of bribery made against Hanna and the men whom he employed to do his dirty work, seven Republican members of the Legislature asked in the name of the people of the State, and in the name of justice, purity, good morals and everything that is dear to a patriotic people that an investigation be had. All but one of the seven members pledged themselves to vote for Hanna if the charges were shown to be false, and the seventh man refused to make such promise for the reason that he is absolutely certain that Hanna did attempt to bribe members.

Of course the members whose pockets were bulging with Hanna's money did not want an investigation before proceeding with the election of Senator, nor at all, as they did not care to have themselves proclaimed bribe-takers. They delivered the goods by voting for Hanna and there is rejoicing at the White House and in every gold center not only in the United States, but in Europe, over his success in bribing legislators.

RELIEF FOR THE KLONDIKERS.

Congress appropriated $100,000 for the relief of those who were represented as being in a starving condition on the Klondike. Bids for furnishing supplies were immediately asked for by the Government and arrangements are being made by the War Department to take them to their destination. The relief expedition will leave Portland, Oregon, on the 23rd instant for the Klondike. It will consist of sixty infantry men, picked from various companies which have been stationed in Montana and Wyoming and are accustomed to a cold climate. There will be one hundred pack mules and the steamer will take 250 tons of provisions to the nearest port to the Chilcot Pass.

The latest reports from Dawson City are to the effect that there is no danger of starvation in the mines. There is abundance of fresh meat—moose and caribou—large herds of which passed through the country recently. The expedition, it is believed, will not reach the Klondike before the breaking up of the ice on the Yukon, but it is possible that it may reach there in the latter part of March.

Two Seminole savages in Oklahoma Territory ravished a white woman and murdered her in the presence of her helpless children. The whites caught the fiends, who, by the way, were half-breeds, and burned them at the stake. Now about 150 Seminoles are on the warpath and leave behind them a trail of blood and burning houses in revenge for the burning of the ravishers of Mrs. Leard. They have already massacred twenty-five or thirty whites including women and children, and boast that they will scalp every white person they meet.

The cold "snap" has been general and unusually severe in California. Snow fell in nearly every county in the State, but it is claimed that the orange crop was not materially damaged. The cold weather for some cause which scientists do not explain, possibly for the reason that they cannot account for it, has been prolonged beyond that of former years. Probably the settlements in the Yukon valley have driven Jack Frost south from the Arctic regions.

HANNA'S election as United States Senator from Ohio has created a bitter feeling in that State as is evidenced by the charges of bribery and other dirty work. Each combine charges the other with all kinds of political trickery, but it is quite probable that after the heat of the contest cools down, the threatened investigations and legal proceedings will be postponed indefinitely as such matters usually are.

CHEYENNE, Wyoming, boasts of its first Democratic victory for many years. W. J. Bryan spoke in the city on his way west last fall, and nearly all who heard the great statesman vowed they would never again vote for a gold-bog for any office from Constable to President. Bryan carries conviction to his hearers whenever their ears are closed with Hanna boodles or promise of Federal pay.

It is claimed a certain emissary went to Cincinnati Sunday to see Representative Otis and that he carried $10,000 with him, and that every word of the conversation between Otis and the emissary has been taken down and will be submitted in evidence. Representative Otis has demanded an investigation.

A tornado passed through the country at Fort Smith, Ark., early yesterday morning doing terrible damage. It is believed that nearly fifty lives were lost. Fires broke out and many lost their lives in the burning buildings. A heavy rain followed the tornado.

The fusion of all silver elements is officially endorsed by the Democratic State Central Committee of Minn. W. J. Bryan addressed the meeting and endorsed the fusion idea. This is regarded as a blow to the Ohio plan in Minnesota.

About fifty representatives of the People's Party met in conference called by the National Organization Committee at St. Louis yesterday. The question of making the organization permanent, holding a National Convention in April and other matters were discussed.

Durrant's body arrived at Los Angeles yesterday morning. A large crowd had gathered at the depot, but their curiosity was not gratified as Mr. and Mrs. Durrant had left the train at River station and were driven into the city in a hack. The body was in charge of a detective and was hurried to an undertaking parlor. It will be taken to Pasadena this morning for cremation.

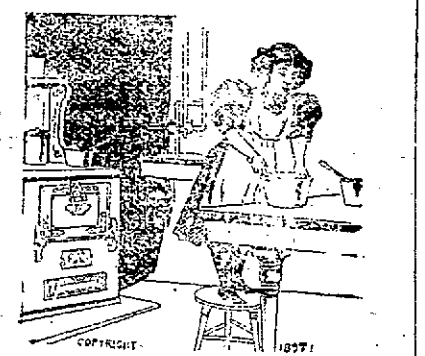

At noon yesterday the two houses of the Ohio Legislature met in joint session and the journals of each branch of the day before regarding the balloting for United States Senator were read and the election of M. A. Hanna for short and long term duly ratified. Reports were current that certain members would be abducted, but none were missing. There was less curiosity manifested regarding the result of the joint ballot than on the day before. The charges of bribery, conspiracy and other wrongs charged by both sides against each other attracted some notice, but nothing very exciting occurred. When the House convened at 10 o'clock Otis arose to a question of privilege and stated that it was due the House and himself that an investigation be made regarding the Boyce bribery charges and he offered a resolution: A suspension of the rules on a consideration of the resolution stood 52 ayes and 56 noes and was declared lost. The 56 Hanna men stood solidly on every vote. In joint session the roll call of the Senate was first and stood 19 for McKisson and 17 for Hanna. Then the House roll was called resulting in Hanna 56 votes, McKisson 51. The total ballot, standing Hanna 73, McKisson 70, Lentz 1, absent 1. Hanna was duly declared elected United States Senator from Ohio for the unexpired term ending March 4, 1899. The ballot for long term resulted the same as the former one and he was declared elected for the long term. This ended the proceedings.

An Artist's Slip.
Half a century ago, says a London paper, the late Sir John Gilbert was commissioned to illustrate a short story for a London weekly. When he had finished the work, the editor remarked, "Why, Mr. Gilbert, the story says an escort of infantry soldiers, and here on the block you have given us mounted ones." "Dear me, so I have," responded the artist, "but I haven't time to do another drawing now. Can't you make an alteration in the story to make it fit in?" The "copy" was handed to a subordinate to make the requisite alteration, but that gentleman forgot to delete the chapter describing how the soldiers had gained the summit of a steep mountain, parts of which they were obliged to scale with ladders. Horses could not have been got there unless by the assistance of a crane. Afterward shoals of letters from subscribers wished to know how the cavalry got there.

PROSPERITY HALLUCINATIONS.

An Object Lesson for the "Gazette."

EDITOR JOURNAL: The "Gazette" man takes us to task for interfering with his prosperity hallucinations and would doubtless like to see us put in the clutches of the Shylocks. In one of his late productions he seemed quite envious of our spare moments and thought it might be better if we had to struggle a little harder to make both ends meet.

We have always been very charitable and generous with the editor of the "Gazette" for we realize the great difficulties under which he is laboring. Editors who are continually building air-castles and chasing rainbows are very easily led into trouble and make unsafe leaders. When the wheat markets began to show signs of improvement these "waves of prosperity" shouters told a confiding public that the farmers were paying off their mortgages and were putting their surplus gold in the banks, and were fast becoming the lords of creation.

California being a great wheat producing State led many of the "Gazette" readers to believe that the farmers of California could well afford to adorn their kitchens with some of the modern improvements of the nineteenth century. An eastern agent kindly located in Reno and for a pecuniary consideration assigned territory in the golden State to a number of Reno's most public spirited citizens. As a result numerous agents left Reno for California in the interest of the farmers' wives who were short in kitchen and pantry facilities. After a lapse of a few weeks the agents began to return to Reno, but in the meantime the eastern agent had left town for a more congenial locality.

After conversing with several of the returned agents we have come to the conclusion that the newspapers have grossly exaggerated the amount of prosperity among California's farmers. Unfortunately, the editor of the "Gazette" was not included in the number who have recently received this valuable object lesson and we fear that he will continue to be led astray by the advance agents of prosperity, who are telling the people about the good time coming, when the gold standard is more firmly established, and when our credit abroad shall again become unimpaired.

RENO, JANUARY 10, 1893.

First Congregational Church Services.
Last Sunday morning the Rev. F. Flawith preached upon the "Coming of the Lord," taking for his text: "The Lord is at hand."

Mr. Flawith dismissed with all theories and speculations in the question of the second coming by saying that the Christian religion was too important to magnify technicalities. Our religion is a life based on essentials and unifying beliefs. "The letter killeth but the spirit giveth life."

The early Christians greeted each other with the word "Maranatha," meaning "The Lord has come." This thought colored all their actions and life. In the same way we can truly magnify His coming. It is safe, it is helpful and unifying. Any other way seems to engender ridicule, mockery and harm to Christian life and fellowship.

Our varied experiences may be as jewels through which the abiding presence of the Lord may shine. The Lord surely came to Luther when, on his knees, he was stricken with the unyielding conviction that the just shall live by Faith. A mighty spiritual revolution followed that experience of the Lord's presence. Progress means the Lord's presence.

In the evening Mr. Flawith preached about "Moses and the burning bush," as narrated in the first six verses of the third chapter of Exodus. Mr. Flawith said it was not necessary to argue whether this was a literal statement or not. The essential facts were what concerned us the most. Then the speaker went on to show how the unseen hand of God cares for and protects us, as in the case of Moses from his cradle to his death.

By discipline Moses had learned the hard lesson that providence cannot be forced; that there are wrong ways and wrong times for doing right things.

God only speaks to us when we find time enough to step aside reverently to study the glowing beauties of nature, or examine the burning experiences of our own hearts and lives. Deep and searching thoughts and occasions arrest us all as this one arrested the attention of Moses. The great lesson for us to learn in this day is the respectful and reverential treatment of things sacred. The need of our times is to listen for God's voice, speaking words of hope out of life's burning conflicts.

Doleful From Dawson.

Mrs. Louis Seckels of this city has received a letter from her husband, who left here on August 5th for the Klondike. The letter is dated at Dawson City, and was written October 25th. Mr. Seckels states that it took him three weeks to travel from Lake Linderman to Dawson. He shot Miles canyon and White Horse rapids without unloading his boat. He is not very enthusiastic over the outlook in Dawson, and says that he would not advise anyone to give up a position to go there. He adds that unless more diggings are discovered in the spring, there will be many idle men in Dawson and consequently much suffering. Salt Lake Tribune.

A Prospective Lynching Bee.

Loupey, the man who was knocked out with a piece of scantling in the hands of young Jones at Vinton, Sierra Valley, Thanksgiving, visited Jones' house near Olat a few days ago and asked to see a man named Adams. The latter came to the door and after a few minutes conversation Adams pulled a gun and bored a couple of holes in Loupey's anatomy, the wounds causing death a day or two later. It was reported yesterday that the Swiss in the valley were quite demonstrative and it was believed that an attempt would be made to lynch Adams last night, but up to a late hour nothing could be learned. From reports there seems to be something out there in the nature of a neighborhood feud and it is likely to end in serious trouble.

The Aftermath of the Court Martial.

Captain Corryell of Virginia, who was sentenced by the court martial to dismissal from the military service of Nevada, will, it is said, commence civil proceedings to set aside the judgment of the military court. It was discovered yesterday that several sets of the harness used by Battery A, N. N. G., were cut up in such a manner as to make them next to worthless. The party or parties who committed this deed are unknown, but suspicion rests on some of the privates who were sentenced to dismissal from the Battery. The matter has been reported to Colonel Lord and an investigation instituted. There is considerable feeling on the Comstock over the result of the court martial.

Badly off Their Reasoning.

The weather sharps on the coast must have got badly mixed up in their observations for the past two or three days. Bulletins and special bulletins have been issued regarding a coming storm of more than usual force, blizzards and other severe changes, but the indications so far are that they slipped a cog. The mercury still dances around the zero point and it looks like it would keep in that vicinity for a few days yet.

The scientific fellows turn their noses up at old Foster, but he can give them all the lie way they want and then beat them a few hours even in their local observations.

WHALE HUNTING.

First American Whaler Was Accused of Seizure—Valuable Catches.

The whale fisheries pursued for many years with great profit to the whalers of Massachusetts and Long Island are now but a shadow of their former proportions. Forty years ago nearly 600 whaling vessels sailed from New Bedford, Mass., and returned with oil and whalebone worth nearly $7,000,000. Whale oil then sold for $2.75 a gallon and whalebone was worth $6 a pound. Now that the whaling grounds have been depleted of their riches, the docks of New Bedford are almost deserted of whalers, for few fishermen are hardy enough to venture into antarctic waters, where the remnants of formerly vast schools of whales fled for security.

The whaling industry is one of the oldest in America. It was established in 1755. It reached its most profitable period 25 years later. Since 1850 it has been decreasing in importance and profit. Today it adds very little to the wealth of New Bedford.

A writer in The Fishing Gazette says: "One William Hamilton was the first person who killed whales on the New England coast. He was born in Scotland in 1643 and, coming to this country in the early part of his life, took up his residence at Cape Cod, where he was persecuted by the inhabitants for killing whales as one who dealt with evil spirits. Whaling was afterward carried on by a Mr. Paddock, who went to Nantucket about the middle of 1680 for the purpose of instructing the English in the art of whaling in boats from the shore, which business continued good and profitable till the year 1760, when it diminished in consequence of the scarcity of whales. In 1718 whales were pursued on the ocean in small sloops and schooners of from 30 to 50 tons. The blubber was brought home and tried or boiled in try houses. A few years later vessels of larger burden were employed and the oil boiled out in try works at sea.

"The most valuable catch ever made by a whaler was that of the Onward, Captain Allen, which arrived in New Bedford after a 41 months' cruise with a cargo worth over $275,000, of which the captain's share was $38,000. The total value of the whole product of the whales brought into New Bedford during the 52 years for which a record has been kept is more than $145,000,000.

"The average ship, carrying a crew of 30 hands, used to cost about $85,000. The ships were owned by companies, which supplied provisions and clothing and all the necessities of the voyage and advanced certain sums of money for the captain and his crew to leave for the support of their families while they were away. No wages were paid to either the officers or the sailors, but each had his share in the proceeds of the voyage, and the balance was divided among the stockholders when they returned. The captains and mates were hardly New Englanders, but the crews were mostly Portuguese from the Canary, Madeira and Azore islands."

MAKING READY FOR A RUN.

A Locomotive Is Almost as Carefully Groomed as a Race Horse.

"Running the Fast Express" is the title of an article by George Ethelbert Walsh in St. Nicholas. Mr. Walsh says: "The engineer comes down to his post of duty nearly an hour before his train is scheduled to leave. All night long in the roundhouse the engine has been carefully watched; a wiper has spent the whole night rubbing down the painting, snorting from horse until every rod and cylinder shines like gold or silver; the banked fire has been kept going, so that a little steam has been always in the boxes, and before he left at night the fireman put everything in perfect order inside the cab. The fireman appears first in the morning and inspects the work of the roundhouse men, and if any part is not satisfactory he makes it so. The engineer makes his inspection after the fireman and thoroughly and carefully examines every part. All the bearings are then oiled, and the oil cups are filled with oil. Next the engine is run out of the roundhouse and tested. Fifteen minutes before the time to start the engine is coupled to the train, and the steam and airbrakes are tested. No race horse was ever brought to his post better fitted for running the course than is the locomotive of the fast express. In addition to the tests already made, a mechanic goes from wheel to wheel, and upon every one strikes a sharp, resounding blow to ascertain if the wheel and axle are sound. Nuts and bolts are examined. The engineer and fireman are held responsible for the perfect condition of the engine and cars before the start is made.
